ETHAN BROWNE

Ethan was born and raised in Vancouver, Canada. He enjoys exploring the rugged, windswept coastlines and dramatic mountain ranges of his home in southern British Columbia whenever possible. A restless traveller, Ethan constantly finds himself drawn to remote, enigmatic regions of the world. He has a lifelong fascination with the Antarctic, along with the resilient and specialized wildlife that inhabit the area. Ethan is a generalist with a specific interest in Antarctic ecology and holds a bachelor's degree in anthropology from the University of Victoria, British Columbia. He is passionate about the outdoors and is keen to share his knowledge with others.
