JIMMY MACDONALD

Jimmy's passion is paddling, in any form, from snorkelling or fishing from a sea kayak in the mangroves and coral reefs of the Caribbean, to following the footsteps of voyageurs and explorers on multi-week canoe expeditions on the rivers and lakes of the Canadian Shield. He's raced in the worlds longest canoe race and ranked third.

Jimmy has worked in the outdoors industry as a paddling guide and instructor for 14 years. His paddling logbook includes the Canadian Rockies and nearly every province and territory in Canada, states across the United States, and waterways in Mexico, Belize, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Brazil, and Europe. He spent three years exploring the Polar Regions, including a 14-day canoe expedition through the tundra to the Arctic Ocean. Over the course of two winters, he spent over 100 days in Antarctica while guiding expeditions.

Jimmy holds a Master of Science in Cold Regions Hydrology. A trained Wilderness First Responder and Swiftwater Rescue & Ice Rescue Instructor, he trains the British Military and Canadian Rangers. Jimmy is an enthusiastic guide whose goal is to set you up for the experience of a lifetime on land and water.
