LAURIE DI VINCENZO

Laurie is an intrepid traveler who has toured, volunteered, and worked in locations all around the globe. By the age of 27 she had visited all 7 continents, and while each journey offered many rewards, she's found that none can match the majestic qualities of the polar regions.

She joined Quark over 5 years ago with a background in marine logistics and operations management, having worked for a tall ship sail training organization based out of her home port, Toronto. That past experience serves her well in her role as Assistant Expedition Leader aboard the Ocean Endeavour, and when she's not in-office on the ship, you'll find her guiding ashore or as your zodiac driver – eager to explore by any and all means!

During the off-season you'll likely find her with a book or passport in hand, either traveling to new destinations or returning to a much loved family cottage on the waters of Lake Simcoe, Ontario. She considers herself a jack of all trades, but master of none, enjoying amateur attempts at cabin renovations, and a variety of sports, such as snowboarding, wakeboarding, volleyball, paddleboarding and kayaking.
