STEFANO POZZI

Stefano is originally from Italy and nature has always been the greatest of his passions. Spending time outdoors is his every-day's priority with a special devotion rock climbing during summer accompanied by ski and snowboarding during winter.

Stefano has a mathematical background and graduated with honours at the University of Milan after 4 years of combined studies in Italy, India, Norway and Sweden. In search of new challenges, Stefano moved to the very High Arctic of Svalbard in 2014 and took the university education of Arctic Nature Guide.

Today Stefano is a full-time outdoor professional with experience in Norway, Iceland, Greenland, Australia, Italy and Nepal. His expertise are long ski & hike expeditions and he logs more than 100 field days and tent nights in the Norwegian Arctic. His everyday mission as naturalist is to share his knowledge and bring his guests closer to nature: be able to provide them with the means to "live" in the wilderness rather than merely survive.
